

Romeo Y Julieta Deluxe #2

Developed in 1875 by Inocencio Alvarez and Mannin Garcia, this brand immediately showed its quality by winning gold medals in four universal expositions between 1885 and 1900. However, it really took off after its acquisition in 1903 by Jose Rodriguez Fernandez. Named for the lovers in William Shakespeare's tragedy of the same name, the brand also is traditionally credited with the introduction of the "Churchill" shape in honor of the British political leader Winston Churchill. Fernandez promoted his brand with endless energy and at one time, his Rodriguez, Arguelles y Cia. Factory produced upward of 2,000 different cigar bands, personalized for their very best customers. Fernandez died at age 88 in 1954, but his efforts survive him, as his full-flavored Romeo y Julieta brand is one of the most widely known and appreciated in the world today.

Looking over this great cigar it has a nice dark oily dark wrapper with no soft spots and no noticeable big veins to speech of. The aroma from this cigar has the classic smell of stables and cedar.

Moving on to the light, there was no problem, it lights up nice with no tight draw and ample amount of smoke. The flavor has a constant soft cedar with some roasted nuts. The cigar held a nice grey ash up to about a inch before is fell off, perfect burn with no touchups so far.

The second half of the cigar was just as great, not too much changed in the flavor profile except that there was a small amount of what I would describe as woodiness with a hint of coffee that came through close to the end. The burn was great, nice and even, no touch ups and I had absolutely no problems with the draw great cigar all the way around which is what we should expect from Romeo Y Julieta.

Over all I have no complaints about this cigar. It had a great draw and constant flavor while producing ample amounts of smoke throughout the entire cigar. So if you would like a cigar that produces constant flavors and smoke this should be on your list to try.
